

air
up

Looking for new challenges while being part of a young, creative and inspirational team and on top you want to help making the world a better place? With our vision to not only offer the most sustainable and healthiest but also the most attractive beverage option we have developed a worldwide unique drinking system. What makes air up so special – the experience of pure taste just by scent. Without health damaging sweeteners, stabilizers, acidity regulators or other additives. Your brain says "wtf" and your health says "thanks"! Join us to establish the market segment of „scent based drinks“ as:

Intern Product Design (f/m/d)

your responsibilities:

- Collaboration on a wide range of projects along the development path of our products
- You work cross functionally with other product related teams such as Product Design, Content and Online Marketing
- You help develop product improvements in any kind of way
- You will work in your lab and bring ideas to life (prototyping)

that's you:

- You study Product Design, Industrial Design or in a related field
- You have very good knowledge in Solid Works or Rhino
- You love to get your hands dirty in our workshop and have good prototyping skills
- You are a virtuoso in the common Adobe CC programs
- You have a good understanding of brands and an eye for aesthetics
- You think entrepreneurial and show a high degree of initiative
- Fluency in English, German would be a plus
- You have at least 4, ideally 6 months to complete the internship

this is us

We are much more than we are able to put into words - but to mention a couple of things which make working at air up great:

- We are a diverse team from all over the world that strives for greatness
- With us you will have a huge load of responsibility and a job that creates value and has impact in a short decision-making environment
- We value you bringing in new ideas and testing new concepts
- Our strong growth provides excellent development options - professionally as well as personally think new.

drink
new.

- We support you with a yearly training budget and many internal training possibilities
- Free coffee, fruit and our own scent pods in the office are naturally also part of the deal
- Remote work partially possible! Without you missing out on anything (except for coffee and fruits ;-)
- For balancing you, benefit from a discounted Urban Sports Club membership and many other corporate discounts
- And last but not least - we never lose fun out of sight, neither in our day-to-day work nor at our regular team events up for a new challenge?

Take your chance to be part of air up's success story! We are looking forward to your application. Please apply online or e-mail us (jobs@air-up.com) with your CV, a short letter of motivation including your salary expectations and possible entry date.