

Aalen University – A Leader in Applied Research

When it comes to research, Aalen University is one of the leading Universities of Applied Sciences in Germany. The annual research budget exceeds more than 15 Million Euro and the scientific output adds up to more than 300 publications and patents per year.

Currently, more than 150 scientists are receiving funding from external sources and more than 60 are pursuing a doctorate. Research infrastructure includes among others two new, state-of-the-art research centers and modern research equipment, which is upgraded continuously.

Research activities tackle major societal challenges including climate change, energy and resource efficiency, sustainable mobility and digitalization. Key research areas are “Advanced Materials and Manufacturing” and “Photonics”. Additional activities include topics such as “Intelligent Mechatronic Systems”, “Analytical and Organic Chemistry” or “Economic and Social Innovations in Transition”. Current crosscutting topics are “Applied Machine Learning/Data Science” or Industry 4.0.

Research is performed within an established network of renowned academic research institutions and leading global companies, many of which are located in nearby neighborhoods such as ZEISS, VARTA, Voith, Paul Hartmann or MAPAL.

WELCOME!
Information for Visiting Scholars at Aalen University

Welcome!

We appreciate your interest in Aalen University and wish you a lot of success with your research at our institution. The International Center of Aalen University is the point of contact for visiting scholars and their families. We will advise you on all non-academic and practical issues and gladly assist you as a service and information center with the planning, preparation and realization of your research stay.

If you have already agreed on the time frame and the topic of your research with your academic advisor, please register using our online registration form (please refer to the link on the back-side). If you have questions concerning the realization or implementation, please contact us at scholars@hs-aalen.de, and provide us with information about yourself (home university, country of origin, faculty, academic position, possible future projects and a description of your current scientific activities).

We also invite you to make an appointment for orientation after your arrival. We will provide you with relevant information and answer questions regarding your first steps at Aalen University and in Aalen.

The International Center of Aalen University consists of the International Relations Office, the Language Center, the association International Society Aalen e.V. (ISA) as well as the Welcome Center East Württemberg.

Funding for Research in Germany

The German Academic Exchange Service (DAAD) (funding-guide.de) awards scholarships to researchers in all disciplines and hosts a scholarship database that includes information on funding offered by other selected organizations. The German Research Foundation (DFG) (<http://www.dfg.de/en/index.jsp>) supports research through a variety of grant programs, prizes and funding infrastructure. Interesting programs for international junior researchers are to be found there, too. The Research in Germany (<https://www.research-in-germany.org/en/research-funding.html>) gate offers an overview of individual funding opportunities at various organizations and numerous links to funding databases.
